Troubles continue, aid also continues

This statement describes the situation in Yemen. Humanitarian conditions continue to deteriorate. Because, according to the evaluations of the United Nations, 80% of Yemenis are in need of humanitarian aid. On the other hand, public services are almost at a standstill after more than eight years of continuous conflict.

This requires greater engagement and consolidation of efforts by humanitarian action partners at national, regional and international levels.

Realizing this, CRB has implemented two different emergency and sustainable development programs in 2022. These programs have covered many urgent, seasonal and sustainable projects aiming to contribute to support the capacities of local governments to alleviate the suffering of poor and displaced families and to fill the gap in the provision of public services to the public. In 2022, CRB contributed to solving the problems of 611,296 beneficiaries in 13 different provinces of Yemen.

Ending poverty and hunger:

It was aimed to realize projects that end poverty, aim at self-sufficiency of the weak, increase their capacity to resist and reduce the extent of being affected by climatic changes, thus reaching a total of 432 beneficia-ries in two different humanitarian initiatives in Marib province.

Providing sustainable shelter to the most vulnerable:

The transition of the family lifestyle from weak tents that do not meet the needs of life to houses that provide privacy and security gives the family a sense of dig-nity and equality with other members of the society, so that they feel the family power, tend to think, work to develop their capacity and look for opportunities to im-prove their livelihoods in a way that contributes to their self-sufficiency. While they live in the tent, they feel weakness and direct their thoughts to providing the mi-nimum daily needs in order to survive. For this reason, they mostly exhibit negative behaviors. CRB provided permanent housing to ten families with special needs and temporary housing to 64 unemployed families in Marib province.

Economic possibilities

Economic possibilities:

Small economic projects are considered a strong basis for supporting infrastructure and supporting the economic and commercial opportunities of families and individuals. This is even more important in local communities, which are in need of large-scale or medium-scale development projects and programs.

Most of the members of these societies generally take shelter in certain structures. When they see those who support the implementation of such projects with their simple initiatives and who support them in development, they develop their feelings of self-sufficiency and this enables them to get rid of the collapse and return to production. In 2022, CRB improved the opportunities of five families from the weaker segment by providing education and small commercial projects, thus writing a success story in helping families recover and earn a steady income.

Quality Education:

Years pass and events are flowing fast. Living conditions in Yemen still continue to worsen. The real disaster is that the next generation will grow up in ignorance as a result of the destruction of the education system. So much so that the reports reveal that about fifty percent of the education system has been completely or partially damaged as a result of the events. Accordingly, in line with UNICEF statements, approximately 2,000,000 male and female students had to leave education in Yemen. This means a great disaster for Yemen and the future of Yemenis.

In order to make up for the shortcomings of educational institutions and contribute to improving their capacities, CRB has implemented some sustainable education projects in 2022. These are as follows:

1340 Student
